8. Spatial, material, and technical provision of the study programme and support

a) List and characteristics of the study programme classrooms and their technical equipment with the assignment to learning outcomes and courses (laboratories, design and art studios, studios, workshops, interpreting booths, clinics, priest seminaries, science and technology parks, technology incubators, school enterprises, practice centres, training schools, classroom-training facilities, sports halls, swimming pools, sports grounds).

The Catholic Theology study programme is provided on the premises of the KU Faculty of Theology in Košice. At present, the premises of the building have been renovated in a modern and practical style. Access to the faculty building is controlled by an access system using student cards.

For teaching purposes, there are 9 classrooms in the building with the following capacity: A1 - 220 seats, B2 - 120 seats, C1 - 30 seats, C3 - 30 seats, C4 - 80 seats, D1 - 40 seats, E1 - 20 seats, E2 - 30 seats, E3 - 40 seats. Classrooms are equipped with new furniture (benches and chairs) and all are equipped with teaching aids – laptop, data projector with projection screen, and blackboard. Classrooms E1 and C3 are specially equipped as computer classrooms, in which laptops for students are also installed (16 in C3 and 10 in E1). Classroom C3 is also equipped with a interactive touch whiteboard. Computer classrooms are mainly used for teaching computer science and languages. Room C4 is furnished as a special classroom for audiovisual teaching. Room A1 is a fully equipped university auditorium, built in 2005, with complete equipment and facilities. It is fully air conditioned with centrally controlled air conditioning. Similarly, the entire lighting with a lighting ramp on the stage is controlled from a central control point, where the controls of audio, video and information technology are also located. In addition to the classrooms, there are 6 department rooms available for the needs of teachers of the theology study programme, in which preparations for teaching and consultations with students take place

b) Characteristics of the study programme's information management (access to study literature according to course information sheets, access to information databases and other information sources, information technologies, etc.).

The KU Faculty of Theology has a faculty library at its headquarters, which is a branch of the KU University Library. The library has a separate section with an area of 500 m². Library materials are freely accessible to students. Most library materials can be borrowed. Before entering the library, there is a bibliobox accessible outside the library's working hours. For full-time study, a study room with 20 study places equipped with a computer is available in the library. The staff of the faculty library also provides students with an interlibrary loan service and information-library counselling per student needs during business hours. The catalogue of books and magazines is available online, so it is also possible to search through library materials from computers outside the library (the library uses the Virtua system). The total library collection of the faculty library represents more than 25,000 book titles and scientific journals (domestic 146, foreign 96). Composition of the library collection with a content link to the field of study Theology: History - 3750 vol .; philosophy, ethics, sociology, psychology - 3050 vol .; moral theology - 635 vol .; nursing - 81 vol .; missiology and ecumenism - 1634 vol .; social work - 415 vol .; law - 407 vol .; pedagogy - 692 vol .; languages, dictionaries, encyclopaedias - 1418 vol. Zasvätený život, Nové horizonty and others. Online resources and information databases are accessible in study areas of the library. The following databases are currently available for students: Web of Science, Scopus, ProQuest, SpringerLink, Wiley Online Library. Students have access to a wireless Internet connection in faculty facilities. They may also make use of 22 kiosk-style thin client Internet terminals using the SUNRAY2 system supported by a SUN FIRE X2270 terminal server. Students have access to the AIS2 academic information system (ais2.ku.sk), where the study agenda is registered. A student license for MS Office 365 is also available.

c) c) Characteristics and extent of distance education applied in the study programme with the assignment to courses. Access, manuals of e-learning portals. Procedures for the transition from contact teaching to distance learning.

For the needs of distance education, the faculty has at its disposal an e-learning portal with the Moodle system (moodle.tf.ku.sk), which teachers can use for online teaching. It is also possible to use the MS Teams or MS OneNote for Classroom system, as students and teachers have the necessary licenses for this software. In the MS Teams environment, it is also possible to implement online teaching via video conferencing. In 2020, teachers were trained to use these resources in their teaching. Teaching through the MS Teams system using a live video connection with students has proved very successful in all given study programs in the given circumstances. Neither students nor teachers reported significant problems. Support in using ICT technologies is provided to students and teachers by the faculty's ICT officer Ing. Anton Babják, PhD.

d) Institution partners in providing educational activities for the study programme and the characteristics of their participation

The faculty cooperates with external partners in the implementation of internships and excursions within the study program:

Archdiocese of Košice, Hlavná 28, 041 83 Košice

Diocese of Rožňava, Nám. baníkov 20, 048 01 Rožňava

Diocese of Spiš, Spišská Kapitula 9, 053 04 Spišské Podhradie

Parish offices of individual dioceses

University pastoral centres, Youth centres

e) Characteristics of the possibilities for social, sports, cultural, spiritual and social activities

The faculty organises several events for students and the public, in the entrance atrium there are regular exhibitions with accompanying events. To the greatest extent, the faculty provides social, cultural and spiritual activities in cooperation with the University Pastoral Centre of St. Košice Martyrs in Košice (<https://www.upcke.sk/>) which carries out several activities directly on the premises of the KU Faculty of Theology. Among the most important events are the so-called Academic evenings.

f) Opportunities and conditions for participation of the study programme students in mobilities and internships (indicating contact details), application instructions, rules for recognition of this education

Students have the opportunity to participate in mobility in the Erasmus + and CEEPUS programs. They are regularly informed about the possibilities of registration by the KU Department for Foreign Relations and Mobility (<https://www.ku.sk/medzinarodne-vztahy/erasmus-student-ka-131/>). The method of registration, selection rules and rules for the recognition of education are governed by the Rector's Directive on the implementation of mobility within the Erasmus + KA 103 and KA107 programmes, Art. 9 - 13 (VP-KU-17, dated 28 June 2019):

9. Required abilities and admission requirements for the study programme applicants

a) Required abilities and necessary admission requirements.

Admission conditions

Completed master's degree in a given field or in a related field.

Successful completion of the admission procedure.

The outline description of the study programme is used to process Annex 2 of the application for granting study programme accreditation.

Additional information: It is also necessary to state the topic of the dissertation and the supervisor in the application. The application is accompanied by a dissertation project in the range of 3-4 pages (justification of the choice of topic, goal, methods, expected outcomes, literature and an approximate scheme of the work). The application states which of the two foreign languages on offer they wish to take the admissions exam.

Form of the admissions exam

The content of the written entrance exam is an examination of the basic knowledge of a master's degree in a given field in the form of a test and an exam in two world languages. The language exam will consist of writing a brief justification of the decision for doctoral studies in the first chosen foreign language and a descriptive translation of the submitted article from the second chosen language into Slovak.

Applicants choose from these foreign languages: English, German, French, Spanish, Italian, Russian. The content of the oral entrance exam is a presentation of the framework project of the dissertation, which the candidate has chosen. The applicant submits a written proposal for the elaboration of the selected topic of the dissertation, which contains: justification of the choice of topic, goal, methods, expected outcomes, literature and an approximate scheme of the work.

10. Feedback on the quality of provided education

a) Procedures for monitoring and evaluating students' opinions on the study programme quality.

Teachers and subjects are evaluated by the students at the end of every semester at the Faculty of Theology. Assessment is performed through the "Survey" functionality in the AIS2 academic information system, which ensures that the student completes the assessment only once and evaluates only the subjects for which they are registered in the given semester and only the relevant teachers. Students can also add a verbal comment to the questions. Students' answers are evaluated at pedagogical meetings, which take place at the beginning of the semester, as well as at departmental meetings, where specific measures are taken to increase the quality of education. Educators can view their evaluation in the AIS2 academic information system and compare it with average values. They can also view verbal comments. The heads of departments see the evaluation of all teachers of the department. The dean and vice dean for education can view the evaluation of all teachers. The graduates of the faculty are contacted via email 6 months after the end of their studies, in which we ask them to fill in the evaluation questionnaire. They comment comprehensively on their completed studies at the faculty. Graduate questionnaires are conducted through the Google Forms application. The results of the graduate evaluation are discussed by the relevant bodies of the faculty management, which also take measures to ensure the improvement of the quality of education.

The assessment report is included in the faculty's annual report, in Part XII. – Educational quality assessment. Annual reports from past years are available at the faculty's website:
