b) Characteristics of the study programme information management (access to study literature according to Course information sheets, access to information databases and other information sources, information technologies, etc.).

An information system is available for students of all study programmes, which includes access to the AiS2 system, university e-mail together with the Microsoft 365 service package, and the MS Teams platform, which is used in the case of online learning. In addition, students have accounts in the academic e-learning system moodle.ku.sk. The Eduroam network enables students and staff to gain an Internet connection in all CU locations and buildings.

The University Library of the CU provides basic study literature, supplementary literature, textbooks, monographs, scientific proceedings and other literature for various disciplines, as well as publications of the staff of the Catholic University in Ružomberok.

Students have also the opportunity to use selected electronic information resources through the project National Information System to Support Research and Development in Slovakia - access to electronic information resources (NISPEZ) - Scopus, SpringerLink, SpringerNature, Web of Science: Current Contents Connect, Essential Science Indicators, Medline, Core Collection. Within the national license provided by the Slovak National Library in Martin, the University Library of the CU has access to GALE's multidisciplinary databases: Academic OneFile, General Onefile, Custom Journals. As part of the trial access, users are allowed access to multiple databases and journal collections for specific topics.

- c) Characteristics and extent of distance education applied in the study programme with the assignment to courses. Access, manuals of e-learning portals. Procedures for the transition from contact teaching to distance learning.

Teaching within the study programmes at the FAL CU is carried out in person/onsite. However, each study programme is also supported by a set of e-courses, which are usually accessible via LMS Moodle <https://moodle.ff.ku.sk>. In this system, individual courses are prepared either through the availability of various study materials (e.g. presentations, lectures, study literature), or teachers also use these courses to implement various activities (e.g. assignments submission, elaboration of tasks, etc.).

During the transition from in person/onsite to online education, the procedure is in accordance with the orders of the Rector and the Dean, which formally frame the implementation of online education. The dean's measures specify the form of online education (the example is the dean's measures from the winter semester 2021/2022): 1. teaching is carried out at the time of the schedule through videoconferencing lectures via MS Teams; 2. in the LMS Moodle, recordings from such lectures or audio presentations of lectures or text transcripts of lectures are made available.

- d) Institution partners in providing educational activities for the study programme and the characteristics of their participation.

(Private) Pedagogical-psychological counseling and prevention centers, centers for children and families, psychiatric departments of university and faculty hospitals, psychiatric hospitals, clinical clinics, reports of counseling-psychological services at labor, social affairs and family offices, hospices, diagnostic centers, crisis centers, social service centers, primary and secondary schools, assessment centers, prison institutions and prison institutions, research institutions. In addition to gaining practical experience and developing the practice of students in the given facilities, the mutual partnership is also oriented towards scientific-research cooperation and other socially significant activities. We cooperate with domestic and foreign universities, the public sector and non-profit organizations. The cooperation also includes lecture and lecture activities focused primarily on connecting theory with practice, creates opportunities for professional excursions, and also refers to participation in the organization of scientific and professional events or the support of specific research projects.

10. Feedback on the quality of provided education

a) Procedures for monitoring and evaluating students' opinions on the study programme quality.

Procedures for monitoring and evaluating the quality of provided education are regulated by the internal regulation Internal Quality Assurance System of Higher Education at the Catholic University in Ružomberok - in particular Part 10 Continuous Monitoring, Periodic Evaluation and Periodic Approval of Study Programmes.

Following the Directive of the Dean of the FAL CU on Internal Evaluation by Students, students studying study programmes at the FAL CU have the opportunity to evaluate (twice during the academic year, at the end of the teaching part of the semester) the quality of provided education. Students can use their right to evaluate the quality of teaching through anonymous electronic questionnaires, in which students' satisfaction with the quality of teaching of individual subjects is monitored. Evaluation can be made by all students who have studied the subject in a given semester; participation in the evaluation is voluntary. Questionnaires are always further processed and analysed at the end of the exam part of the semester.

In addition to this regular questionnaire evaluation, students can comment on the quality of provided education in the following ways:

- expressing their views and suggestions through a special mailbox for this purpose,
- lodging complaints,
- regular meetings of the faculty leadership with student representatives in the Students' Board of the Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Letters of the CU,
- representation of students in the bodies of academic self-government, namely in the academic senate of the faculty, the disciplinary commission of the faculty and participation in the meetings of the dean's board,
- participating in the preparation, discussion and approval of materials and internal regulations in the field of education.

b) Results of student feedback and related measures to improve the study programme quality.

The analysis and evaluation of student questionnaires regarding the quality of provided education and related recommendations are processed after each semester in the Report on the Internal Evaluation by Students. The report is subsequently discussed in the Board of the Dean of the FAL CU and in the Students' Board of the Dean of the FAL CU. On the basis of this report and other monitored indicators, the persons with the main responsibility for carrying out the development and quality assurance of the study programme take related measures to improve the quality of the study programme. Individual Reports on the Internal Evaluation by Students can be found at Department for Research and Doctoral Studies of the FAL CU.

c) Results of graduate feedback and related measures to improve the study programme quality.

After graduation, graduates have the opportunity to evaluate the quality of the completed study programme through an anonymous questionnaire. Questionnaires are analysed and evaluated by the vice-dean for education of the FAL CU in the Report on the Evaluation of Study Programmes by Graduates. In the summary report, it formulates conclusions and recommendations, as well as proposals for measures to eliminate shortcomings or increase the quality of education at the faculty level. The guarantor of the study programme proposes measures to eliminate shortcomings or to increase the quality at the level of the study programme. The report is discussed in the Board of the Dean of the FAL CU and in the Students' Board of the Dean of the FAL CU and published at the website: <https://www.ku.sk/fakulty-katolickej-univerzity/filozoficka-fakulta/filozoficka-fakulta-ku/uradna-vyveska/vysledky-spatnej-vazby.html>
